

Title: Sensory Environments for People with Autism Spectrum Disorder

Outline: Considering special environmental factors in order to accommodate specific sensory needs for adults with ASD and other developmental disabilities, a day program center was designed in the northwest. Furthermore, the center was designed by adapting an evidence-based design approach. A case study was conducted to investigate the impact of the purposefully designed sensory environment on the behaviors of adults with ASD and other developmental disabilities.