UF FRESHMAN PLAN FOR SUCCESS

The Rinker School has several options for high school graduates to obtain a Bachelor of Science in Construction Management. To be considered for any of the options, you must first apply as a freshman to University of Florida. Once you apply as a freshman, your application will be considered for not just regular freshman admission, it will also be considered for the following programs and scholarships:

GATOR DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION (GDC) @ SFC:

Students would attend Santa Fe College (SFC) in Gainesville for the first three semesters but would obtain UF student status, if they meet requirements, after the first semester. For additional information on this program:

www.dcp.ufl.edu/gdc

PATHWAY TO CAMPUS ENROLLMENT (PACE):

Students would start their degree online and then transition into an on-campus student usually within 2-3 semesters. For additional information on this program:

www.admissions.ufl.edu/pace/

ARCHITECTURE, CONSTRUCTION AND ENGINEERING (ACE) FRESHMAN SCHOLARSHIP:IF

If you are admitted to UF and indicated on your freshman application that you were part of an ACE program and select construction management as your major, you will be considered for the ACE freshman scholarship. For additional information:
