COURSE INTENTIONS

This course introduces the building materials and finishes used in interior applications regarding their potential contribution to the functionality of the built environment, contextual relevance of application, operational and environmental sustainability, and their potential impact on the continuum of human health, safety, and wellbeing. In this course, students will explore and evaluate the diversity, applicability, and lifecycle of interior building materials. The objective of the course curriculum is to expand students' aptitude for innovative applied finish and surface solutions while ensuring they develop strong technical expertise regarding interior material life-safety, operational performance capabilities, and applicable code requirements. Students will learn the technical vocabulary and scientific concepts associated with materials' construction, fabrication, specification, and installation requirements. Students will also become familiar with the role and responsibilities of interior designers in ensuring the quality and safety of various built environments that serve a variety of space users. The goal of this course is to enable students to source appropriate interior surfaces based on environmental use and user requirements, specify material based on CSI standards, with a particular emphasis on Division 9, communicate material selection value to project stakeholders, and evaluate post-occupancy material installation performance.

Educational Goals:

Specific goals are derived from the Council for Interior Design Accreditation (CIDA) Standards:

- Students works demonstrate an understanding of how environmental responsibility informs the practice of interior design (CIDA4c).
- Student work demonstrates an understanding of the impact of the built environment on human experience, behavior, and performance (CIDA7a)
- Students can express ideas in oral communication (CIDA9b).
- Students works demonstrate an understanding of color terminology and color in relation to materials, textures, light, and form (CIDA12g&i).
- Students are aware of the influence of furnishings, objects, materials, and finishes on human wellbeing (CIDA13a).

Students understand how furnishings, objects, materials, and finishes work together to support the design intent (CIDA13b).

- Students understand the typical fabrication, installation methods, and maintenance requirements (CIDA13c).
- Students understand appropriate design or specification of products and materials in relation to project criteria and human well-being (CIDA13d).

in their studios and classes. A strict adherence to the Honor Code is expected by the University of Florida and reflects the ethical standards of the interior design profession.

Attendance & Participation:

Attendance is essential to the learning process. Students must be on time for each class session and present for the entire class to be marked present. The instructor must be notified in advance of any necessary absence in person or by email. Two absences will be tolerated without penalty. Each additional absence will result in the reduction of a course grade by one letter grade. More than six absences will automatically result in failing the course.

Classroom Climate:

Equitable participation in this class requires the use of inclusive language, methods, and materials. Students are expected to use inclusive language in written and oral work, and to respect diversity in viewpoints expressed by others. Students are also encouraged to identify language, methods, and materials used in this course that do not contribute to an inclusive classroom climate.

Laptops, Cell Phones, Tablets:

Students may bring mobile devices to class and use them during the period for course-related purposes only. Students are not permitted for use during quizzes.

Project Due Dates:

All assignments - completed or incomplete - must be turned in on the due date and will be graded as they stand. No projects will be accepted late. The right to make an exception will be reserved only in extreme cases (due to emergencies). In such cases, the instructor must be notified in advance by email. For the exception case, a delay of over one week will not be accepted.

Requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work are consistent with university policies that can be found at

<https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/1516/regulations/info/attendance.aspx>
