Class Periods: Monday 5-6 period RNK 225
Wednesday 5 period

Office Hours: Wednesday 9.30-11.30 AM and/or by appointment.

Course Objective:

This course offers an overview of selected important topics in urban economics. Urban economics, as a discipline, lies at the intersection of geography and economics. At a general level, urban economics brings space into economic considerations. Primarily, this course will address the following questions. Why do cities exist? Why cities differ from each other in size, structure, and other characteristics? What makes some of the cities grow exponentially? How do firms and individuals decide where to locate? Why do firms cluster in urban locations? How the price of land is determined and how it varies across space? What causes urban problems such as poverty, crime, housing, transportation, and pollution? How urban government addresses the above-mentioned issues? This course will be applied in nature and will take an interdisciplinary approach.

Textbook:

O'Sullivan Arthur, Urban Economics (8th Edition), McGraw Hill/Irwin.

Course expectations:

I don't assume prior knowledge of microeconomics and calculus. Some class time will be used to cover basics of economics and econometrics.

Instructional Methods:

Classes will be conducted using lectures, discussions, and audio-visual presentations.

Course Requirements:

Weekly reading- you are expected to read and intellectually comprehend assigned readings for class discussion and written submission.

Assignment- you are required to do 5 assignments. The assignments are an important component of the course, and each will count toward your final grade. You will be given at least 7 days (announced in the class) to complete your assignments.

Project- during the semester, students are expected to identify a research topic of their interest. The final project for the course includes a comprehensive research proposal/paper, and a presentation.

Grading:

Assignments: 50% of the final grades
 Article Summary: 10% of the final grades (4X1.25%)
 Class Participation: 10% of the final grades
 Final project:
 -Final Proposal/Paper: 20% of the final grades
 -Presentation: 10% of the final grades

Accommodation for students with disabilities:

Students requesting classroom accommodation must first register with the Dean of Students Office (<http://www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/>). The Disability Resource Center in the Dean of Students Office provides students and faculty with information and support regarding accommodations for students with disabilities in the classroom. Staff at the Disability Resource Center will assist any student who registers as having a disability.

Online Privacy:

Our class sessions may be audio visually recorded for students in the class to refer back and for enrolled students who are unable to attend live. Students who participate with their camera engaged or utilize a profile image are agreeing to have their video or image recorded. If you are unwilling to consent to have your profile or video image recorded, be sure to keep your camera off and do not use a profile image. Likewise, students who unmute during class and participate orally are agreeing to have their voices recorded. If you are not willing to consent to have your voice recorded during class, you will need to keep your mute button activated and communicate exclusively using the "chat" feature, which allows students to type questions and comments live. The chat will not be recorded or shared. As in all courses, unauthorized recording and unauthorized sharing of recorded materials is prohibited.

Student Honor Code and Academic Honesty:

On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied:

"On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment."

Students must follow the University's policy regarding cheating and the use of copyrighted materials. Please visit <http://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/honorcodes/honorcode.php> for more information.

NETIQUETTE: COMMUNICATION COURTESY:

All members of the class are expected to follow rules of common courtesy in all forms of communication. Please visit
